First Snow of Season Not Heavy Enough for Severe Trials But Tests Were Held To Give Drivers Experience

The snow which fell during Thursday night and this morning was not heavy enough to require the use of either of the two tractors which were bought by the county in order to keep roads open in winter, or the snow scrapers which are

For the purpose of trying out the tractors, however, and giving the drivers experience in running them over snow-covered roads, both tractors tors were used this afternoon under the direction of County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran. Tests and tryouts with a slight snowfall furnish excellent experience to the men who will be called on to drive them should blizzard conditions develop later in the season.

The bus line owners either did not consider the snow sufficiently heavy to justify the use of the scrapers, or plows, which were purchased for their use, or else believed they were too heavy to attach to the busses.

the snow, and it is not believed that the snowstorm will interfere with travel in any part of the county.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

CANAL TRAVELING

"I had always been quite satisfied with the dictionary's explanation of a canal," said Daddy, "until I realized I was going to travel through canals. The dictionary calls a canal 'an artificial waterway for inland navigation.' That means a man-made waterway for boats to travel through the inland sections of the country."

"It always sounded so dull, necessary perhaps, but so dull. But when I first heard I was to go on a trip through many canals I was immediately flurried."

"I didn't know what to expect. I would soon know, however, what a canal was like. It did seem interesting, too, to think of made waterways so that boats could go poking their way into places wholly new to them."

"It gave the boats that traveled in such a fashion a new personality! They were like people who go adventuring and exploring into out-of-the-way corners, I thought to myself."

"And my trip was splendidly interesting from the start. My enthusiasm began to rise and rise and with it our boat would rise and rise—but I'm getting ahead of myself, for there is so much I want to tell you."

"We left the city from which we were taking this trip at noon. Our captain and a friend from another boat was talking near at hand. They were speaking of the boats in the river which were just in—some the captain's friend had not seen for a long time."

"Their talk went along like this: 'Oh, I see the Mary Gray is in. Is she all right now? She was pretty badly knocked out for awhile there. I wasn't sure if she'd ever be herself again. Just as fit as ever? Fine!'"

"There's Henry B. Oh yes, and I notice the Princess Anne is back. She has been off for a long cruise, hasn't she?"

"Why there's Eileen back again. It's a long time since I've seen her. They're going to see that John Lyon will have plenty of heat with all that coal they're piling on! How well Rosalie looks. She's a beauty! Hasn't she grace? I've always admired Rosalie."

"So they talked as we went by the different wharves. If you closed your eyes and didn't see them pointing out the different boats to each other you surely would never have thought their conversation was about anything short of real people."

"It seemed a pity that I had to eat and sleep. It always seems that way to me when I'm traveling. It would be so nice to be 'seeing' all the time."

"Yet there is something about traveling that makes one want to eat more and sleep more than at home. It's the only quarrel I ever felt on a trip and that was with myself alone for I hated to give in to these feelings. But it was lunch time as I finished hearing them talk and lunch time won. But suddenly I looked out of the window and saw great, enormous wharves on either side of me. In fact we appeared to be jammed in a wooden cage—with perhaps the top of us peeping out."

"That was the way it appeared from the dining room. It wasn't quite as much of a cage as that. And then there was a grating noise and we began to slowly rise higher and higher. We were in what was known as a lock then. It all seemed very puzzling at first."

"This river could not be navigated in certain parts because of a big drop in the river bed, this drop being eighty-five feet in fourteen miles. The down-sweep of the current we were told was about twenty miles an hour—a tide so swift that even fast motor boats were unable to go against it."

"Then, too, the rapids along the river made navigation quite difficult, if not impossible. There are boats that shoot the rapids, of course—but that isn't what you'd call simple navigation."

"Therefore, in order to navigate up the river a system of canal locks had been built. The waters of the river were made to go into the canals and forcing the boats upstream by flooding these locks or cages as they appeared to me. We moved up by locks about nine to fifteen feet each time."

"And I do hope," said Daddy, "that the one who made the special eager request for a story on how one went up hill through locks and a canal will read this little story."

CANDY A FEW WAYS

Everybody likes the old-fashioned candies which mother used to make, such as:

Buttered Scotch.—Take one cupful of white sugar, one quarter of a cupful of molasses, one tablespoonful of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and one-half cupful of butter. Boil the ingredients together until, when tried in cold water, the mixture will be brittle. Turn into a well-buttered pan when slightly cool and mark with a sharp knife into squares. Flavor with a few drops of vanilla before pouring out. If desired, Chocolate Caramels.—Put two and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter in a kettle and, when melted, add two cups of molasses, one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of milk, and one square of chocolate. Boil all together until, when tried in cold water, firm ball may be made, then add a teaspoonful of vanilla. Turn into a well-buttered pan to cool. Mark off in squares before it is too firm.

Sultana Caramels.—Put one-quarter of a cupful of butter into a saucepan, when well melted add two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of milk and one quarter cupful of molasses. Heat to the boiling point and boil seven minutes. Add two squares of chocolate and stir until the chocolate is melted, then boil seven minutes longer. Remove from the fire, beat until creamy, add one-half cupful of hickory nut meats or walnuts, cut into pieces, and two tablespoonfuls of sultana raisins. Cool slightly and mark off into squares.

Peppermints.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of boiling water and stir until the sugar is dissolved, then boil ten minutes; remove from the fire, add six drops of peppermint and beat until creamy. Drop from the tip of a spoon on buttered paper.

Pralines.—Boil together one and one-half cupfuls of powdered sugar, one cupful of maple sirup, one-half cupful of cream until a soft ball may be formed. Remove from the fire and beat until creamy; add two cupfuls of hickory nuts or pecan meats. Drop into small piles on buttered paper or mold in small gem pans.

The White Weasel.
The ermine, or white weasel, is the smallest of the fur-bearers found in North America. The finest ermine fur comes from Russia and Siberia. In winter the animal is snow white except for a black tip on the end of the tail. In summer it turns brown, and the brown fur is, for this reason, known on the market as "summer ermine."

KINGSTON, N. Y., DEC. 28, 1923.

That New York clergyman who employed barefooted dancing girls to "give color" to his sermon is not altogether pleased with the results, but he can hardly complain if such "color" impressed the congregation more than the discourse itself.

According to Cyril D. Boyce, Secretary of the Moderation League of Ontario, while drunkenness has decreased 10 per cent in dry Ontario, it has decreased 36 per cent in wet Quebec. Presumably the explanation of the difference is to be found in the immemorial popularity of forbidden fruit.

It seems that a young man who went from Cleveland to New York "to make his mark as a novelist" gave up a literary career for the business of robbing hotel rooms. Perhaps he concluded that the latter ought to be as respectable as the production of some of the sex-problem "best sellers."

A contemporary remarks that the demagogue and the autocrat are the twin menaces to civilization. Yes, and sometimes you find the two combined in one personality. The worst autocrat is sometimes the man who denounces autocracy when he is out of power but undertakes the role of an absolute monarch when he is in.

In the last year the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce replied to more than a million inquiries from firms engaged in overseas trade. The Bureau's organization at home and abroad provides an information service that no single concern could afford to support, and furnishes trade data at a fraction of what it would cost a private corporation to obtain.

France has indicated her willingness to enter an international conference for the limitation of submarines, airplanes, and poison gas. These were subjects that it was found impossible to include in the Washington conference, but it may be that President Coolidge will find opportunity to extend the world peace accomplishments of President Harding by securing agreements that will limit other war devices.

The United States inspired the arbitration and armaments limitation treaty among the five Central American republics, and there is little likelihood of war breaking out among them. But there seems no way to prevent internal revolutions, which may well be as bloody and disastrous as an international conflict. Following the rebellion in Mexico, the republic of Honduras has declared martial law, because a revolution is thought to be brewing in that country. Human nature cannot be controlled by international agreements.

DISTINGUISHED JEWS.

President Coolidge's reference to the "splendid estate of leadership, spirituality and service" which the Jews had given to the world "for the common advantage," at the time of the Jewish New Year some weeks ago, has led to an interesting enumeration of the distinguished and high-placed Jews of the world. The twelve greatest of these, according to a poll in the New York Jewish Tribune, includes a celebrated physicist, chemist, man of letters, Supreme Court Justice, the Viceroy of India, a critic, a poet, a rabbi, a philosopher and a playwright—as follows: Albert Einstein (Germany); Chaim Weizmann (England); Israel Zangwill (England); Louis Marshall (United States); Louis D. Brandeis (United States); Lord Reading (England); Nathan Straus (United States); George Brandes (Denmark); Chaim N. Bialik (Russia); Stephen S. Wise (United States); Henri Bergson (France); Arthur Schnitzler (Austria).

It is interesting to note that four of these twelve are Americans and three Englishmen, more than half of them having developed in the free atmosphere of English-speaking countries. American and English nationality are noticeable also in the list of fifty prominent Jews, which, omitting the first twelve mentioned above, include David Belasco, Samuel Gompers, Oscar S. Straus, Samuel Untermyer, Julius Rosenwald, Adolph S.

Ochs, Cyrus Adler, Baron Rothschild, Sigmund Freud, Maximilian Harden and Leon Trotsky. It will be observed that the list represents statesmanship, philosophy, the law, literature, the drama, labor and revolution as well as banking.

That Body of Ours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

WHERE WE LIVE—THE ABDOMEN.

Did you ever think of all the different organs that are stored away in your abdomen.

There is the liver, stomach, pancreas, intestines, kidneys and so forth. It would appear as if that part of your body was a sort of furnace or factory, which had just one thing to manufacture—blood.

The blood builds up every part and yet gets all its material from the organs in the abdomen.

Of course it gets cleared of its impurities in the lungs, but it really gets all the materials of which it is composed, from the abdominal organs.

It then goes up to the heart which pumps one portion to the lungs to be purified, and another portion goes from the heart to all parts of the body.

Now this factory where the blood is made is not protected by the heavy breastwork of ribs that we find protecting the heart and lungs in the chest.

Now are the organs in the abdomen not just as vital as those in the chest?

Most assuredly they are.

Why then has not Nature covered them up with a bony framework?

Simply because you were expected to bend that body forward, backward, and sideways in the ordinary work or play of the body.

Consequently there are muscles running up and down, crossways, and obliquely over the abdomen. These are the muscles to which I referred in a previous article as being Nature's corsets, because when they were properly developed they hold the abdominal organs in place as snugly as would a pair of corsets. But there is one most important thing to remember.

When a man was created he was meant to move these muscles constantly by exercise. There is really no exercise that calls for real effort that does not put the abdominal muscles into play.

What am I trying to teach?

That the organs in the abdomen are going to be held in their right positions, and if these organs are going to be stimulated to real healthy action, then you should see that you use the middle third of your body every day. Housework, sweeping, lifting, golfing, all the athletic games call into play these muscles. They actually massage the abdominal organs and increase their working power.

361 Miles of New Trail.
During the past year, 361 miles of trails in the forest preserve were cleared for the use of campers, hunters, fishermen and the conservation commission's fire fighting force. Eight new open camps and thirty-eight fire places were built for people who use the forest preserve for purposes of health and recreation.

SHAWLS AND OTHER WRAPS FOR EVENING.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

There are as many silhouettes possible for evening wraps as there are types of women to wear them, and who shall say whether the barrel, the pencil, the cape, the shawl or the straightline prevails. There is more than casual interest in the wrap which has its straightline broken by a cape terminating somewhere about the hipline. Straightline models continue to be wrapped around the form and held in position, for the average evening wrap is rather barren of fastenings, which is also true of daytime wraps whether of fur or cloth.

Now that it is apparently no guarantee of wealth to have an ermine or any other costly fur wrap, women who can afford such luxuries are frequently showing a preference for fabric wraps either limited to a fur collar or for wraps which are entirely without fur.

The model shown is fashioned of broadened satin and bands of metal cloth, collared with fur. When velvet is not used for lining purposes, metal cloth frequently is, in which case bands of ribbon or some decorative effect are used as far as the knee or even the hipline. It must be borne in mind, however, that evening wraps as well as coats for day wear have fallen under the spell of the three-quarter idea. Many a coat which is longer than that has a band of fur or some other trimming feature above the hem, so that it becomes an casual glance, three-quarter length.

So many evening wraps have no fur at all, that it is a distinct blessing to the woman who has a small clothes' budget. Bolster collars, corded or covered with ruffles of velvet or great ruche collars make a flattering finish for the neckline. There is marabou and clipped and long ostrich for those who like flutter effects. In using these trimmings it is advisable to have them band the entire coat, neckline, sides and lower edge.

Among the newer evening wraps are those which are headed and those which are made of printed velvets. There are also cape effects made in sections which are outlined with a narrow fur edging or with galloon.

Without mention of either a Chinese mandarin coat or a shawl, we have not done justice to the elastic and absorbing subject of evening wraps. Rather newer than Spanish shawls and decidedly less costly, are the Russian shawls which are painted to simulate the marvelous silks over embroidery peculiar to the Spanish types.
The shawl must not be ignored, however, not even the picturesque Hungarian cashmere variety. Many scarfs are widening out to shawl proportions, and there are scarfs which tax one's ingenuity to find new ways of wearing them, since the way the scarf is worn is of almost as much importance as the scarf itself.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified croscote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ. Of all known drugs, croscote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to croscote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the croscote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of trouble and destroys the germs that lead to serious complications.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in treatment of chronic coughs and colds, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

BARTENDER WOULD BELIEVE IT WAS IZZY.

Izzy and Moe Adopt New Disguise—Just Themselves.

Izzy Einstein and Moe Smith had to wait ten minutes between trains in Syracuse Thursday.

Coming into the New York Central station they glanced from the car window and saw several cash customers resting their elbows against the gleaming mahogany bar of Big Bill Bosworth's restaurant and cafe across the street from the station.

"There's nothing like a train ride to develop a man-sized thirst," observed Izzy as he roved a wistful eye across the street.

"I know just what you mean," Moe countered.

They alighted from the train and, disguised as themselves, walked into the bar across the way.

"Here comes Izzy and Moe," Moe called with a winning friendly greeting to Bill Bishop, the bartender.

"You can't fool me, boys," Bishop answered. "What'll you have?"

After the little something the pair waved a friendly goodbye to the bartender and walked to the office of U. S. Commissioner Lewis C. Ryan, where they obtained a search warrant, later serving it and arresting Bosworth and Bishop.

Then they hopped a train west.

"I'm not so thirsty now," remarked Izzy.

"Neither am I," answered Moe.

ATWOOD.

Atwood, Dec. 27.—The exercises given by the children on Christmas evening were all that they were advertised. The weather man helped by planning a beautiful and clear moonlight evening. The roads were freed from the mud by the frost. Taking all in all Providence was very kind to the people of the community and they showed their appreciation by attending en masse. At the close of the exercises the teacher, Ernest R. Patton, told the parents and friends that there would be prizes given to those pupils who did the best work for the exercises. Those who are in line for prizes are Miss Helen Davis for first prize and Miss Dorothy Markle for second prize.

All the pupils took their parts well and not a few showed talent that can be developed. The pupils spoke well but sang better. There were but three songs by the whole school and there might well have been more. Besides the school songs there were three solos by Miss Helen Hansen, Miss Jean Case and Miss Helen Davis. There was a duet by Miss Dorothy Markle and Bramwell Case, and a drill song with evergreen branches by the Misses Hazel Hansen, Helen Davis and Dorothy Markle and the Messrs. Bramwell and Case and Elting Siskler. Following the exercises there was a musical program supported by some of the parents and their friends. The credit of the success of the musical program and partly of the exercises is due to the untiring efforts of Miss Nettie Davis. Others who contributed to the success of the exercises are the parents of the children and Mrs. John Markle and Mrs. Clarence Davis not to say anything of our Board of Education. Andrew Hansen. Over thirteen dollars was cleared from the sale of refreshments. This will be used for much needed school furniture.

Apaches of Paris.

The apaches of Paris were so named by newspaper men about 1908. Two men named Manda and Lecat loved the same woman, who was named Casque d'Or. She bestowed her affections upon Manda, whereupon a quarrel arose between the two men. Manda was shot and killed by Lecat. The quarrel was taken up by Manda's friends and followers. Soon two large bands were organized and their quarrels became so violent that the name "apache" was given them.

NO BONUS ADVICE FROM MOUNT VERNON NEEDED

Henry A. Peken Explains Why Congress Should Pass Measure.

Editor, The Freeman:
In Wednesday night's Freeman you published a letter written by a certain Henry S. Loomis of Mount Vernon, N. Y., wherein he expresses his sentiment against the granting of a compensation to ex-service men. I don't know why a citizen of Westchester county should try to persuade the people of Ulster county and especially of Kingston to think with him against a measure that has the support of all the people except a few which necessarily must be to make a measure worth arguing about. In the recent elections in New York state the question of granting a "bonus" to the veterans was again decided in a very affirmative way. In the same manner the people are in favor of a national remuneration for the men that served their country in a way that brought them less financial gain than they would have had if they had remained at home. Every question has its positive and its negative side but the bonus question is very near to the hearts of America's four million ex-service men and their relatives and friends. There are of course lots of ex-service men that do not want it and do not need it and some of them are even against the bonus question but that does not make the question of a bonus wrong. The members of congress know that a tax-cut appeals to those that have taxes to cut especially the larger ones that the war profiteer now has to figure out every year; but they must also know that the nation's pledge to those that left their jobs and homes to heed the call of their flag must be redeemed. Wall street tells us a bonus would wreck the treasury and the treasury itself through Mr. Mellon tells us of huge surplus sums. Then again the big boys say, "No bonus" but the people must be heard because of the representative ideals that have always been and will again be upheld. Personally I could do without my portion of the "bonus" even though I was no "flight commander." The only thing I "commanded" was a squad and for that I was given an honorable discharge and later a promise of a little change to make up the difference between my job in Kingston and my job in the army. That promise was never filled and not counting Mr. Loomis, four million others are waiting. Ulster county and Kingston said "yes" to a bonus on election day and now here comes a man from Westchester and says "no." What do you say Mr. Editor and buddies in Kingston?

BOYS' SOCIAL AT Y. M. C. A. TONIGHT

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock a social for members of the boys' department of the local "Y" will be given under the auspices of the Epworth League of the Trinity Methodist Church. DR. CADDY TO GIVE A SERIES OF LECTURES.

Beginning on Sunday evening at the 5 o'clock vesper service, Dr. Caddy will commence a series of six illustrated lectures on the Sunday school lessons. The one on the coming Sunday will be the lesson for the 6th of January, "Abraham—A Chosen Leader and a Chosen Land." These lectures are intended as helps for teachers and other Bible students. Each one will be given on the Sunday preceding the date for use in the Sunday schools. These lectures begin at 5 and close at 6 precisely. Everybody is invited.
At the vesper service this Sunday, Ralph A. Young, soloist from Pilgrim Church, Brooklyn, will sing a baritone solo, "An Evening Prayer."

The white Christmas service on last Sunday evening brought out a large congregation in spite of the rain. The church was darkened while from the vestibule marched a chorus of twenty-five girls and boys of the junior department, singing "Holy Night." They filled the choir loft and gave several two part carols. The girls alone gave the "Manger Lullaby" and "Under the Stars." Richard Whiston recited a poem entitled "The Coming of the King," and Mrs. Van Wazenen read a recent poem by Mrs. Robinson, sister of the late President Roosevelt, entitled "A Christmas Invocation." Virginia Sleight gave the welcome and Little Main preceded the singing with "Let Us Now Praise Thee, O Lord." The school as a whole sang a number of the old carols.
This school receives no presents but it gives to others. The offering at this time was $80 for starving children abroad and for the Industrial Home and Tuberculosis Hospital of our own city gave two crates of oranges, one crate of grape fruit, eighty-six packages of soups, cocoa, evaporated milk, jellies, etc. The Christmas tree was also given to the Industrial Home.

GREENE EXPLAINS HIS ECONOMIES

Total of $271,081.15 to be Saved to State Through Abolishment of 126 Jobs, Auto Upkeep and Other Expenses.

The following letter has been received by Governor Smith from Colonel Frederick Stuart Greene, superintendent of public works:

State of New York,
Department of Public Works,
Albany, N. Y., Dec. 26, 1923.
Hon. Alfred E. Smith, Governor of the State of New York.
Your Excellency:

Under the new public works law consolidating the department of highways, public buildings and the old department of public works, we have thus far been able to eliminate 126 positions, which carried salaries totaling $241,940.50, and six automobiles with an operating expense of approximately $15,000. In addition, there is a saving in traveling expenses, rents, etc., which will bring the gross annual saving to $271,081.15.

Bureau of Highways.
In this bureau the following positions will be abolished:

1. Secretary of the bureau. The duties of this position will be performed by the new assistant secretary, whose title will be changed to chief clerk, bureau of highways.

2. Two general maintenance inspectors, whose duties will be performed by the division engineers, aided by their 69 county assistants.

3. Assistant to the first deputy, whose duties will be performed by the commissioner of highways and his first deputy.

4. Third deputy and his entire staff, known as the bureau of town roads. As far back as 1913, when a survey of the highway department was made by a board of consulting engineers, that board recommended the bureau of town roads be abolished as unnecessary. In 1921, a firm of public accountants, after a survey of the highway department, also recommended that the third deputy's bureau be abolished, and I am informed that every highway commissioner since 1913 has thought the third deputy's office an unnecessary expense to the state. Had the law permitted I would have abolished the bureau of town highways during your former administration. No other state in the union has a separate bureau to administer the affairs of town and county roads.

This bureau consists of five employees in the Albany headquarters, seven Indian reservation superintendents, and nine district supervisors scattered about the state. The total cost of this bureau in 1922 was approximately $60,000. Its chief duty is to supervise the building and maintenance of county and town roads.

The nine district supervisors, in addition to the work of inspecting road improvements, audit the accounts of the 932 town superintendents of highways. The improvement of town and county roads is directly under the care of the county superintendents (appointed by the boards of supervisors). The responsibility of our nine district supervisors is indirect; their duties and authority overlap those of the county and town officials. The auditing done by these supervisors is, to say the least, of a sketchy nature. They can merely audit the bills for material and labor incurred by the town after the money has been spent, which means that they can only instruct the town authorities how to legally post these expenditures in their books. That these nine state officials can have but slight knowledge as to how wisely the money has been spent, or whether it was spent at all, is evident when we remember how large a territory they must cover and how seldom they come in contact with the work while in progress.

Finally, the highway law prescribes that the third deputy may audit these town accounts, whereas the finance law directs that the comptroller shall audit the accounts of all officials. The voluntary auditing done by the bureau of town roads, therefore, overlaps the work of the comptroller; and, again, as the department of public works is one of construction and maintenance, it appears evident that this auditing should be done solely by the comptroller.

Instead of the perfunctory supervision of road construction now exercised by the third deputy, the plan for all county and town roads for which the state contributes a share of the cost, will hereafter be approved as to necessity, location and design by the nine division engineers. These men, aided by their 69 county assistants, all engineers trained in road building, will have close touch with the work while in progress and will be in a position to see that the $5,000,000 the state gives annually to aid counties and towns, is properly spent. This policy of supervision and control is similar to the method adopted by the federal government on roads built by the states under federal aid.

I can assure you that instead of doing harm to the department of public works these eliminations of unnecessary positions, made possible through the new public works law, will improve the morale and increase the efficiency of all three bureaus.

(Signed)
FRED'K STUART GREENE,
Superintendent.

536 FOREST FIRES IN STATE DURING PAST YEAR

Of 536 forest fires reported during the past year in the five towns in the Adirondacks and Catskills, 172 were caused by smokers, 82 by fishermen, 70 by campers and 29 by hunters.

Locomotives, berry pickers, lightings, burning buildings, burning rubbish, burning brush, children, lumberjacks, burning automobiles, sawmills, fireworks, steam roller, boiling up and incendiaries were responsible for the remaining 203 fires. An examination of these figures shows clearly the need of greater care with fire in the woods on the part of campers, hunters, fishermen and smokers.

The NEW MODEL SINGLE SIX

Still Finer, With No Change in Fundamentals

The new Packard Single-Six remains unchanged in fundamentals of engineering and manufacture.

We agree with its more than 30,000 enthusiastic owners, that basically the Single-Six cannot be greatly improved.

We recognize, however, in four-wheel brakes, an important advance in motor car design.

In fact, Packard Straight-Eight was the first prominent American car to carry four-wheel brakes as regular equipment.

From this time, all Packard cars will be equipped with four-wheel brakes, and two additional brakes on rear wheels, a total of six.

To insure greater durability, and long life the new Single-Six is provided with a heavier transmission. It is exceptionally quiet and smooth in operation. Artillery type wheels of heavier construction contribute enhanced appearance.

Greater steering ease is provided. A larger steering wheel is used.

To make the battery more accessible, it has been located on the running board, as in the Straight-Eight, and enclosed in a theft-proof box.

The brilliant beauty of design and color, which have made the Single-Six the most notable—and the most imitated—car on the market, remain unchanged.

With these important improvements, the Packard Single-Six is, in our opinion, an even more outstanding value than in the past.

Let us show, and demonstrate, this new model Single-Six, without any obligation on your part.

Let us explain why this car is a far more saving investment, in the final analysis, than cars costing a thousand dollars less. Come in, or telephone.

Refinements in Regular Equipment

There are also several important refinements in regular equipment including—

Gasoline gauge on the instrument board;

The use of adjustable window regulators on the rear windows of Sedans and Sedan-Limousines;

The adoption of an efficient stop-light for all types;

Larger steering wheel;

A more beautiful instrument board, with walnut finish;

Rear vision mirror and windshield cleaner;

An interior tonneau light for all open models;

Toilette cases, smoking sets for closed cars.

KELLOGG SCORES WALSH ET AL

Governor's Commissioner Call for Removal of All Officials Mixed Up in Canal Supply Deal—Actions Against Sisson, Cullen and Walsh Recommended.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Dec. 28.—Edward F. Walsh of Brooklyn and James F. Doyle of Syracuse, former commissioner and deputy commissioner, respectively, of the state bureau of canals, are severely criticized by former Judge Joseph A. Kellogg in a report just submitted to Governor Smith dealing with an investigation into the department of public works. Judge Kellogg was appointed a special commissioner under the Noteland Act by the governor to probe the public works department, following charges by Col. Frederick S. Greene, superintendent of alleged financial irregularities in the bureau of canals.

Col. Greene charged the state had been mulcted nearly $25,000 in buying canal supplies from the General Mill and Contractors' Supply Company of Albany, of which E. L. Swasey is general manager.

After asserting that no proof was developed of actual corruption, Judge Kellogg, in his report, added: "Some of the transactions, however, it is difficult to understand unless we assume a sinister motive on the part of some state official or employee."

Shortly after the probe was closed, both Walsh and Doyle tendered their resignations to Col. Greene. Several other canal bureau employees who were questioned at the investigation, also have quit the state service.

Judge Kellogg recommended to the governor: "That all officials and employees in the canal bureau connected with the transactions be removed."

"That the attorney general institute criminal action against E. L. Swasey, for fraudulently presenting bills."

"That civil action be brought against Charles L. Cadogan, Rochester, former superintendent of public works, and former Superintendent Walsh for permitting the purchase of unserviceable canal equipment."

"That civil action be brought against Herbert L. Sisson, former commissioner of highways, for his failure faithfully discharge the duties of his office in connection with the Lake Bridge transaction." It was charged during the investigation that the state paid $68,000 for the Black Lake bridge in St. Lawrence county when the structure was assessed for $10,000.

Judge Kellogg, in a preliminary report to the governor in October, recommended that the Albany county district attorney investigate alleged overcharges by Swasey with a view to criminal action. This was done, but the district attorney reported to the governor that the case was not strong enough to present to a grand jury.

FORD'S BRITISH PLANT HIS LARGEST OUTSIDE U. S.

The Manchester plant of the Ford Motor Company of England Ltd., the largest automobile factory in the British Isles, will produce approximately 30,000 cars during the year 1924, according to a recent report. The English company, formed in 1910, began operations in a small factory near London where 570 cars were turned out in the first year. The factory was moved shortly afterward to Manchester, forming the nucleus about which the present mammoth plant employing 2,200 men has developed.

While the company was originally dependent on the Ford Motor Company in America for parts, the new plant includes on its 316,924 square feet of floor space complete up-to-date automotive production machinery for every important unit. Thus the English Ford car, originally a combination of American parts and British assembly, is now 95 per cent British, both in manufacture and materials.

Since its inception thirteen years ago the Manchester plant has grown to be the largest Ford plant outside of the United States, and it is estimated has directly given employment to 20,000 British workmen.

POLICE SEIZED 3 AIR RIFLES

Highland Avenue Youths Enjoying Christmas Gifts Until Police Arrived on Scene—Against State Law to Carry Air Rifles on Public Streets.

Three Highland Avenue boys Thursday afternoon were out with their Christmas air rifles and were having a good time until members of the police department appeared on the scene and seized the rifles.

Under the state law no one under sixteen years of age is allowed to have an air rifle in their possession on the public streets. It is also against the law to sell these rifles to boys.

Any boy seen on the street with an air rifle is taking a chance of having his gun seized and destroyed by the police, who have no option in the matter but are forced to see to it that the law is obeyed.

The Jewish Star.
The Jewish Welfare board says that according to Jewish tradition the symbol on the Jewish flag was not primarily a star, but was a double triangle, the emblem borne on the battle shield of King David and the design of that monarch.

THE WOMAN PRO OFFICER

Back in 1873-4 when the first prohibition movement swept America, Mrs. Georgianna Hopley went out with the Bucyrus group to clean up that Ohio town. Her husband, John Hopley, was editor of the Bucyrus Journal. Of their children seven are now active newspaper men and women.

The eighth, Georgia Hopley, has graduated from newspaper work into a job that combines the ambitions of both mother and father. She writes on the letterhead of the United States Treasury department and signs "General Prohibition Agent, Constructive Information Bureau, Prohibition Unit," and with a flash of humor recently added, "That's all."

She is said to have been the first woman in Ohio to enter active newspaper work. In 1900 Governor Nash appointed her representative of Ohio women at the Paris exposition. She remained abroad for many months and has since made frequent trips to England and France. As women have become more and more active in politics she has given much of her time to political publicity campaigns.

Whatever else Miss Hopley's business cards say they always have in the lower left-hand corner, Home Address, Bucyrus, Ohio. "It isn't civic pride alone that makes up my loyalty to the old home town," she insists. "Bucyrus is always on the map."

A large part of her work for the prohibition unit consists in public speaking. Reporters who have followed her meetings are astonished into commenting on the fact that she is broad-minded, with all her enthusiasm for prohibition. She comes with official power, they say, but she is content to let the question rest with the public. She is spending her time just "telling folks about it." She tells them what the enforcement forces are doing. She tells them what great obstacles have been thrown in the way. She pictures those which are used maliciously and those used by the unformed and the unintelligent.

Controlling the malicious wet forces isn't the part of the job that this skilled newspaper woman is interested in. Education of those who are uninformed and indifferent carries to Georgia Hopley the thrill of being as practical as a shoe-selling campaign and as idealistic as the dreams of her mother.

New Alloy Looks Like Gold.

A young French chemist named Mazarin has invented a new alloy resembling gold, and it has been called "neum." It has the brightness, durability and inoxidability of gold, which qualities will permit its substitution in jewelry and other manufactures where gold is now used.

Courage Counts.

If the world doesn't recognize your talents, don't get discouraged—get mad. An angry man accomplishes something—a discouraged one never does.

Tea in Europe.

When tea was first drunk in Europe, nobody thought of mixing it with milk, though it was customary to serve it with sugar or sugar candy.

Almost.

If from what he thinks he knows a man would subtract what others think he knows the remainder might equal the sum of his knowledge.

Meaning of "Stone Age."

The term "Stone age" is commonly used to denote the earliest recognized stage in the development of human culture as defined by the materials used by man for weapons, utensils, etc. The phrase is somewhat misleading, since it is probable that primitive man made use of wood and other perishable materials to a far greater extent than of stone, and consequently the stage is defined by the prevailing material of the relics which have survived, not by that of actual implements in common use.

How Big Can City Grow?

Just how big a city can grow has long been a subject of speculation. Some persons think that the metropolitan area of New York city will eventually have a population of 20,000,000 or 25,000,000 people.

The census figures of the county of London show that in the years from 1911 to 1921 inclusive the rate of increase in London was only 3.2 per cent, whereas the rate of increase in the rest of England was 5 per cent, says the Youth's Companion. They show, too, that in those years there was an actual migration from London of 320,000 and that for the first time in centuries there is a decided tendency of humanity away from the metropolis. Perhaps Greater London with 7,500,000 has about reached the limit of its growth.

The Sans-Culottes.

The name Sans-Culottes was given by the aristocrats at the beginning of the French revolution to the democratic party in Paris, because they gave up wearing knee-breeches in vogue then among the nobility, and adopted trousers, or pantaloons, instead. The term was first applied in contempt; but was afterwards adopted as synonymous with "good patriots" by the popular party.

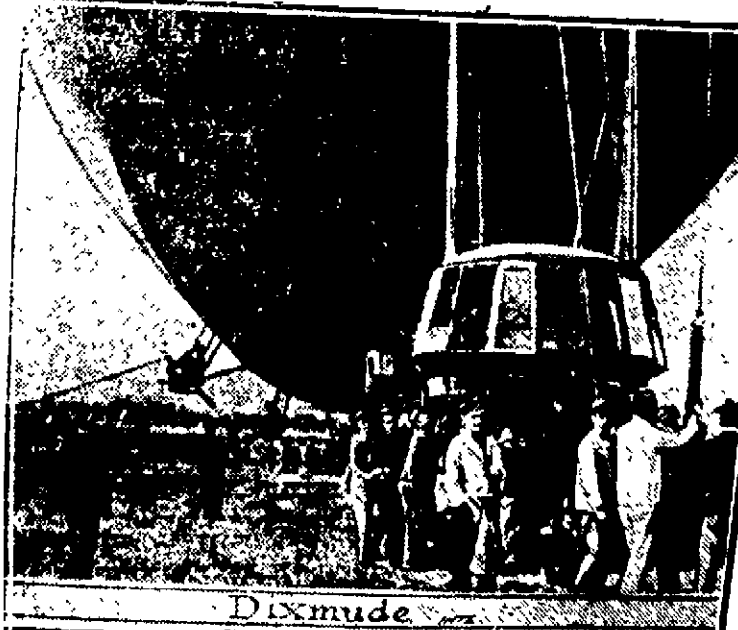

The Swiss Guard.

The original Swiss Guard was a regiment of royal body guards of the rulers of France, constituted by royal decree, 1616. It was composed entirely of Swiss and so conducted itself that it became world-famous for absolute fidelity and courage. The traditions of the guard were kept up until after the final dissolution of the empire. The papal guard known as the Swiss Guard consists of ten officers and 110 men, picked from Swiss of unblemished character, and, in the case of the officers, of high family. Only Swiss are allowed to serve and privates may not marry during their term of service.

She Clutched at a Straw.

The elevator was at a standstill, but the floor of the car was a few inches lower than the floor of the building, says the New York Sun and Globe. A young girl hurriedly entering the car and not noticing the step stumbled and fell. The arms of a stout man with a cigar in his mouth saved her from accident if they did not save her from embarrassment. When she had extricated herself and recovered both her poise and her dignity her rescuer turned to her with a polite request, "May I have my cigar back, please?" he asked.

DIXMUDE BUILT TO BOMB NEW YORK.

COREY PREPARING TO BECOME FRENCH RESIDENT

His Living Here Caused Mabelle Gilman to Get Divorce.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Dec. 28.—William Ellis Corey, former steel king, whose wife divorced him recently because he would not live in America, is going to France to live, according to announcements today by his friends.

His former wife, Mabelle Gilman, San Francisco musical comedy star, married the steel magnate in 1907 after he had divorced his first wife. She has lived abroad for several years.

Corey's friends pointed out that he had been quietly withdrawing as director of numerous corporations and that his recent withdrawal from the board of the Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation freed him of the last of his American connections.

Recently, too, he has given up his offices here and it is also reported that his Fifth avenue home here is to be disposed of. Two weeks ago, his friends said, Corey gave a "farewell" luncheon to business associates.

Following her divorce Mrs. Corey said there were no differences between her and her husband except their residence.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 28.—A continuation of yesterday's profit-taking was in evidence during initial trading on the stock market today. The declines, however, were limited to fractions except in the cases of a few specialties. Corn Products sustained the greatest loss falling 1½ to 156. Steel Common improved moderately to 97½, but Crucible at 66½ and Baldwin at 124½ were fractionally lower. Marland oil, Texas oil and Standard of New York made opening fractional gains but the other shares shaded off slightly. Coppers and rails showed little change. Crude dropped ¼ to 105½.

The irregularity of the opening trading gave way to a general falling off in values during the forenoon. In addition to the selling for profit taking purposes, selling also appeared to record losses for taxation purposes. The declines, however, were mostly fractional except in the case of a few specialties which slumped of a wider range.

SCIENCE SOLVES RIDDLE OF SEX, SAYS DR. RIDDLE.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 28.—Science, in the near future, will be in a position not only to predetermine but to reverse or modify sex or other bodily or mental characteristics, Dr. Oscar Riddle, of the research staff of the Carnegie Station for experimental evolution at Cold Spring Harbor, N. Y., told the American Society of Zoologists today.

In detailing the history of complete sex reversal observed in a female dove, which because of a tuberculosis infection, affecting the spleen and liver, became a male with all male characteristics, Dr. Riddle said that was "of course, an item of unusual interest to the general public."

"The scientific interest and importance of the demonstration can, however, scarcely be exaggerated," he continued, "since the result clearly indicates that the hereditary basis of no bodily or mental characteristic may be considered as irrevocably fixed and uncontrollable."

One of these characters, known to be hereditary and also known to be controlled through the so-called "chromosomes" of the germ cell, has been shown to be capable of reversal to the alternative form.

"It therefore becomes wholly probable that all hereditary characteristics of every human being and of every organism are capable of reversal and modification."

Near Copenhagen a block of granite weighing more than 400 tons was lifted from the ocean bed and moved to a place miles distant. In the same neighborhood hurricanes drove far up on the shore sheets of ice that, when melted, left piles of ocean bed rocks, chains and parts of sunken vessels.

COOLIDGE THANKS CLARKE FOR OFFER

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 28.—President Coolidge today sent Edward Young Clarke, imperial giant and former wizard of the Ku Klux Klan, a letter of acknowledgment and thanks for Clarke's offer to cooperate with federal authorities in "cleaning house" in the Klan.

The president's letter was not made public. It is understood, however, the president did not comment on the grave charges against the Klan made by Clarke in his letter yesterday, nor indicate what action, if any, would be taken by federal authorities.

WHEN A BARGAIN IS A BARGAIN.

There is a most amazing error in the advertisement of the L. B. Van Wagenen Co. in The Freeman today that was discovered too late to be corrected. In one paragraph there is offered two yards of unbleached muslin for 69 cents, "worth 19 cents a yard." This doesn't look like much of a bargain, but the fact is that five, not two, yards are offered for 69 cents.

The baby had been strangled. Two finger marks, clearly those of a woman, showed on the infant's throat.

Cucumber Beetle Will Injure Garden Crops

Pests Make Their Appearance Suddenly.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The striped cucumber beetle attacks and injures seedling cucumbers, melons and related crops, but especially the cucumber, as soon as they appear. They even burrow down to meet them before they come above the ground. They devour the tender stems and leaflets before the plant is fairly started, gnaw the older stems and ripe fruits and act as carriers of cucurbit diseases. They make their appearance suddenly and in great numbers, and as they work rapidly an entire crop may be destroyed in a few days. The slender white worm-like larvae injure the plants later in the season by tunneling the roots and underground parts of the stems.

The control measures which have given the greatest promise of success are preventives, repellents, farm practices, and the use of insecticides, particularly nicotine dust and arsenate of lead.

In suggesting control measures, the department commends that young and choice plants in small gardens be protected with tight coverings. If an excess of seed is planted, the attack will be distributed, and some of the plants will escape the beetles. Nicotine dust should be applied directly, and arsenate of lead used as a spray, either alone or in combination with Bordeaux mixture. Care should be taken to cover every portion of infested plants, both surfaces of leaves, vines and stems. Clean culture with trap plants is an aid. Active cooperation of neighboring growers of cucurbits in these methods is desirable. Community effort in observing these methods will undoubtedly lessen the danger of losses from this pest in the course of time.

"Yellowing" Cuts Deeply Into Alfalfa Production

"Yellowing" is one of the most serious troubles of the alfalfa grower. In the East, says the United States Department of Agriculture, it is responsible for a greater reduction in yield every year than any of the diseases or insects. In the past few years it has been observed in the West, but in the rest of the country it has been known almost as long as the crop has been grown on a commercial scale.

Although the cause of "yellowing" has never been definitely determined, it has been attributed to a number of unfavorable conditions. In some cases it has been thought that soil conditions were responsible, as the same symptoms occur in the absence of sufficient lime, plant food, or drainage. But it also occurs where all these conditions are favorable, as is shown by the quick recovery of the plants after the old growth has been cut. When the cause is lack of lime, food, or drainage the plants die soon after cutting.

Fall Calving Desirable on Many Dairy Farms

Under most conditions on the dairy farm, says the Department of Agriculture, fall calving is desirable. The calf receives milk for the first few months of its life, and when it is ready to be weaned from this food good succulent pasture is available. During the winter it has learned to eat grain and roughage while it has been getting whole milk, skim milk, or milk substitutes, and when grass comes it can make the change without getting a setback. There is another advantage in fall calving, as the cow gives the largest flow of milk at the season when prices are usually the highest. Also calves are at the right age so that if well developed they may be bred to calve in the fall. From the standpoint of profits on milk, local conditions, such as cost of feed and price of milk in different seasons, should have consideration.

Without Good Pasture Hogs Are Unprofitable

All through the summer season hogs should have access to pasture. Sows with pigs cannot do their best in small, dry enclosures, and they will not be profitable when so confined. "It is natural for hogs to exercise in fields, root in the ground and choose their ration from the variety of plants to which they have access," says R. W. Clark of the Colorado Agricultural college. Man cannot furnish a ration comparable to pasture in all other respects. A pasture is the first thing that should be provided in pork production and pigs should have constant access to it from the time they are born until disposed of.

Horses' Shoulders Need Bathing in Salt Water

Since the power of a horse is applied through the collar, it is of utmost importance that the collar should fit the neck and shoulders. Carelessness in using badly-fitting collars not only develops sores and ugly scars, but many times causes horses to become balky. Horses' shoulders should be bathed in salt water every evening, in order to harden them.

No Rice Paper.

The "rice paper" of which cigarettes are made is not rice paper at all and the "rice paper" on which the Chinese make such exquisite color sketches is made of the pith of a tree.

Rich Fabrics in Coats and Capes

Alluring Colors Add to Attractiveness of New Evening Wraps.

Fashion has been an engaging subject ever since the beginning of history, and will continue to be until woman ceases to play her traditional role of beauty. Pending the arrival of that sad day, observe a fashion writer in the New York Times, fashion remains of sufficient importance to enlist the talents and the enterprise of a vast and busy army of artists, artisans and merchants.

It is entertaining to watch the evolution of styles and the extremes to which the changes swing. In one season the gown is of conspicuous significance, and when the mode proves to be popular, it lasts, with variations.

An Original Model in Clad Blue Velvet Bordered All Around With Chinchilla and Lined With Orchid Satin.

through several seasons. Millinery and wraps are secondary. They are mere accompaniments of the dress. Another year, the fashion in gowns having become simplified, styles in wraps, furs or accessories are elaborated and featured by designers. It is all a question of values, and the best artist in dress follows the same principle as that on which an architect or a painter works.

From the rich fabrics and fine detail of a few years ago taste reverted to plain materials and gentle modes. The wholebone and crinoline of modern Paris gave way to the classic Greek in lines, and somehow figured stuffs had no place in the catalogue of fashions. The whole feeling was for simplicity; the gamut was run and the subject became lrisome. Then swiftly the women of fashion arrived at the present moment of violent colors and gorgeous stuffs—American women, they say, leading the world in beauty and extravagance of dress.

With costly gowns one must wear correspondingly splendid wraps and furs. A cape of satin or velvet, with a fur collar such as was quite the thing but a little while ago, is the utility wrap of the season, the sort that serves for morning or outing. For a gown of dazzling metal brocade or shimmering lace, with girdles and even shoes jewel-studded, and accessories fit for the toilet of an empress, the wrap must be of brocade of equal richness, with lining and trimming to harmonize.

For midwinter evening wear and for daytime formal occasions fur wraps are exceedingly popular, so they are very choice—sable or ermine or chinchilla, with a decided preference for chinchilla, the price of which has soared to dizzy heights. But for the most elaborate gowns one must have a covering made of one of the new materials, in light or bright colors—and in these the designers have created some models of great beauty.

Dolman Much in Evidence.

An exclusive New York house has presented some melting creations emanating from the ateliers of Paris, in which artists have been inspired by the many alluring colors shown in the materials. Some of the combinations are a joy to see and to wear. In the styles, the wrap-around, wide sleeve, full length dolman is the most usual. But lately new lines and features have been developed, and the garments depart from the simpler cut and become more complex.

All of the latest Paris wraps are long, some just brushing the floor as the wearer moves. A popular model that has decided cachet is the straight coat, instead flaring, with wide sleeves slightly flaring and drooping over the hand. From the high fur collar at the back a cape falls to several inches below the waistline. The wrap is built of corn-yellow and gold satin brocade, with a lining of velvet in a deeper yellow, and the collar and deep cuffs are of brown fox fur.

In another evening wrap the order of materials is reversed. Aquamarine blue velvet is a solid color is lined with a gray satin brocade, blue and rose and silver. An enveloping collar is of black fox, and the sleeves, untrimmed, end in a wide, flaring cuff.

that sweeps away from the arm just below the elbow. This charming garment is fastened at one side with a superb ornament of aquamarines and diamonds, with strands of crystal and blue beads forming a fringe ten inches long.

A lovely shade of mauve velvet is modeled into an evening wrap having a deep plaited yoke, from the bottom of which falls a dounce, like a full cape. The collar is high, flaring at the back and with a slight roll in the front, and is trimmed with three rows of narrow ermine. This fur also outlines the lower edge of the yoke of plait. The lining is of brocade satin in pale blue, violet and silver, and the wrap, which is wide and full, is slipper-length.

Among the new models in evening wraps that come from Paris houses of authority, some are important for their artistic quality and because they establish modes that are entirely new.

WONDERFUL RECORD MADE BY CORNELL FOOTBALL SQUAD

FEW USE ALL THEIR BRAINS

Scientist Says Most of Us Have More of Them Than We Know What to Do With.

"We do not use our brains to half their capacity," says Sir Arthur Keith, a British scientist. He makes that assertion after a minute study of the brains of gorillas and gibbons in the African jungles.

"Most of us," he goes on, "have more brains than we know what to do with." That, we suppose, will be taken by most persons as a compliment. The more common assertion has been that most persons did not have brains enough. However, if one does not use the brains nature has given him, what profiteth him? He might just as well be without brains. Atrophied brains, brains that are not used, are useless. It is nature's way to remove useless organs or to reduce them to an embryonic state. If, therefore, most of us have more brains than we use, and they are in consequence of no value, will not nature proceed to reduce the brains she gives each one of us to an amount which is made to work?

If she does that, what will be the result? Who can say? Other changes are being wrought in the human body. The same scientist says he is convinced certain characteristics, easily recognized in the bodies of a large proportion of our modern population, are of recent origin. The most plastic bone in the human body, he said, is that under the gums, in which the teeth are rooted, and it is here the most marked changes are to be noted. "In 30 per cent of the people this bone," continued Sir Arthur, "instead of spreading outward and giving the roof of the mouth a wide and low vault, as in prehistoric races, grows in a vertical direction, giving the palate a narrow and high arch.

"In these contracted palates there is no longer room for the normal number of teeth. Such as appear are crowded; the wisdom teeth often fail to cut or are absent altogether.

"The recession of the teeth gives the modern nose and chin an undue prominence; the tendency of all modern changes is toward the production of long and narrow faces. The 'adenoid' type of face, with which medical men are familiar in modern children, was unknown in prehistoric times."

A Yarn About General Sherman.
West Point and its traditions recall a story that is told of General Sherman when he was commanding general of the army, after the Civil war. With several other distinguished visitors, he made an inspection of the West Point barracks. Finally he entered a room in one of the divisions and the two cadets occupying it sprang to attention. Sherman saluted, as is the custom, then drawled: "Any contraband in this room?" When neither of the cadets replied, the general, with a smile on his face, stooped down before the fireplace and, reaching up, removed a loose brick. Putting in his hand he drew forth several cigars. This was in the days when no smoking was allowed. "Thought so," said the general. "I used to hide 'em there myself." It was Sherman's old room.

U. S. Gets New Zealand Bird.
Among the interesting birds imported into this country recently was a "kiwi" shipped from New Zealand for the National Zoological park at Washington. The biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture issues permits for all shipments of foreign mammals and birds, and inspects them when necessary in order to protect this country from the introduction of species which may prove injurious to agriculture. The kiwi, which is native only to New Zealand, and even there approaching extinction, is rarely imported into the United States. The present specimen is the first that has been on exhibition in the National Zoological park for 15 years. The last shipment was made in January, 1900. One of the birds coming in at that time lived two years.

A New Spoke in the Hub.
The first day at school a little girl presented herself who looked very much like a true daughter of Italy. "You're an Italian?" asked the teacher. "No'm," was the astonishing reply. "But wasn't your father born in Italy?" "Yes'm." "And wasn't your mother born in Italy?" "Yes'm." "Well, you must be an Italian." "No'm," she answered. "I'm Irish. I was born in Boston."—Open Road.

Then He Kept Quiet.
A pair of London lovers were strolling along late one evening when the girl said to her companion: "Bill, I dreamt about you last night." For one short moment Bill tasted heaven. "Gwan," he breathed; "yes never!" "Yes," she continued. "I did straight Yer know tried fish an' mince pies all ways gives me the nightmare!"

Friend Husband.
A charitable young lady, visiting a sick woman, inquired, with a view to further relief, as to her family. She asked: "Is your husband kind to you?" "Oh, yes, miss," was the instant response. "he's kind—very kind. Indeed, you might say he's more like a friend than a husband."

Coach Gil Doble of the Cornell football team, shown in the inset, is credited with the wonderful record this squad has made in the last three years. Photograph shows Pfann, the clever field general of Doble's powerful eleven, getting away on a run, aided by perfect interference, which netted a thirty-yard gain for the Cornellians in the recent Columbia game.

Honor Former Trainer

University of Pennsylvania Varsity club has erected at the south gate leading into Franklin field a memorial tablet in recognition of the services of Michael C. Murphy, who was coach of the track teams and trainer of football players from 1896 to 1900, and again from 1905 to 1912, when he died.

The tablet records that Mike Murphy was a "famous trainer of many victorious teams," and contains one of his oft-quoted sayings. "You can't lick a team that won't be licked." The tablet was dedicated when Cornell played football there Thanksgiving day.

FEW PLAYERS STAND DIAMOND GRIND LONG

Cobb Has Stood Acid Test of 18 Years of Playing.

It is unusual for a really great athlete to last long. He works so hard that he wears out a lifetime of energy in a brief space. Occasionally a man comes up to the top who continues to star for a half-dozen years; a rarity appears and holds his place for a dozen years, but once it is given any man to observe a star athlete who can continue to shine through a dozen and a half years.

For instance—of the 400 players in the major league 12 years ago, only 13 are still in the majors. One of these was out of the game for a time, so that only 12 have served continuously for the period of 12 years. Thus one man in forty is able to hold his own for the brief space of 12 years.

Of the approximately 350 players who were in the major leagues 18 years ago, only one remains. Since that time it is likely that 5,000 men have been in the majors only to pass out. Which proves that this one man who has survived the acid test of 18 years of starring must be some physical miracle to be the sole survivor of 5,380 men.

This man is Ty Cobb, manager and center fielder of the Tigers. He is going in for another year of strenuous athletics again next season, and probably for a season or two after that.

Only four men in the major leagues are with the clubs they were in 1911. They are Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson, Max Carey and Zach Wheat. Adams is back with Pittsburgh, but he was out in the Western league for a time and he doesn't count. The other veterans of a dozen years in the majors are Eddie Collins, Harry Hooper, John Collins, Jack Quinn, Jake Daubert, Gus Spink, Walter Johnson, Stuffy Sulz and Rube Marquard.

Of the whole lot, Cobb, dean of the bunch, is still probably the best player, but Speaker, Eddie Collins and Daubert are still good.

Robertson Is Choice

Lawson Robertson, University of Pennsylvania coach, was unanimously recommended by the A. A. U. convention in Detroit, as its choice for track coach of the 1924 Olympic team. This recommendation will in all probability be accepted by the executive committee of the American Olympic association. Robertson was assistant to Coach Moakley at the last Olympic.

Sporting Squibs

New York city is the greatest sporting center in the world.

Expert says it takes nerve to be a golf player. Even takes nerve to dress like one.

Man o' War, the wonder horse of the American turf, won 20 races out of 21 events.

John J. McGraw's salary as manager of the New York Giants is estimated at $50,000 a year.

The prospective opponents of Jim Dempsey are Harry Wills, Tom Glavens, Luis Firpo and Jack Renault.

The University of Missouri is the first of the big schools in the Middle West to take up polo as a college sport.

A tennis player, who recently appeared in a North of England tournament, played with a racquet in each hand.

A hint from Cincinnati is that management of the Reds would eagerly consider offers of a trade for Sam Bohne.

Mexico City now has three county clubs, in addition to numerous tennis, football, riding, baseball, rowing and polo clubs.

The twenty-fourth annual American Bowling congress will set another record entry mark with about 2,200 teams competing.

According to Coach Zuppke of Illinois football players need big feet to enable them to keep their balance when they are hit hard.

Swimming is the leading sport of the Hawaiian islands, followed by tennis, golf, polo, football, basketball, volleyball and baseball.

The Salt Lake club came across with an item to the effect that George (Duffy) Lewis has been re-engaged as manager for the season of 1924.

Robert Roth of Switzerland, who won the heavyweight wrestling championship at the last Olympic games, has become a professional boxer.

The interesting news comes from some obscure place where Rube Benton has been sojourning since the season closed that Rube may give up baseball.

Jack Slattery, old-time major league player, after four years of service, has resigned as coach of the Harvard university baseball squad to look after personal business interests.

To satisfy their love for outdoor sports inhabitants in New York city spent close to $10,000,000 during the 1923 season. The chief sports were boxing, baseball and racing.

The University of Pennsylvania has 60 candidates for the boxing team. They will meet teams from West Point, Penn State, Massachusetts Tech, Colgate and possibly Yale.

The Galveston club has purchased from the Tulsa club the veteran second baseman, Charles (Paddy) Baumann, with the purpose, it is presumed, of making him manager of the Sand crabs.

The Bloomington club of the Three I has signed for a trial next spring St. Louis youngster named Jesse Jackson. He is the nineteen-year-old brother of Charley Jackson, a star in the Three-I league several years ago.

The owners of the Milwaukee club plan to put on big league training stuff in the spring. President Otto Borchert's idea is to pick out a town in Florida and play exhibition games with various major league teams training in that state.

Seeking here and there for a second baseman, the Detroit club has signed for trial one Charles Gehring, who made a notable record with an independent team at Angola, Ind., the past season, where he played under the name of "Wilson."

Great Friend of Benz

Joe O'Neill, late traveling secretary of the White Sox, used to room much of the time on the road with Joe Benz, pitcher, and dearly loved to put up jokes on the "moundball hurler."

Late one night O'Neill pounded heavily on their door, which was unlocked, by the way. After a long time Benz appeared, rubbing his eyes sleepily.

O'Neill was in his stocking feet, carrying his shoes under his arm. "I didn't want to disturb you, so I took them off," he said.

Batters Need Nerve for Hard Hitting, Says Wheat

Hitting depends entirely on a player's nerve, in the opinion of Zach Wheat, heavy-hitting outfielder of the Brooklyn National league club.

"A player who lacks courage always can be found well down in the averages," says Wheat. "Baseball's best hitters, like Ruth, Cobb, Speaker, Hainey, Hellmann and Roush, are both nervy and confident. They know how to pull themselves out of a batting slump."

"When I fail to hit I know I am doing something wrong at the plate and try to correct the fault. I know there isn't anything the matter with the bat, the ball or the umpire. It is my own fault, and no one can make me get back into my stride except Old Man Wheat himself."

English Admit Yankees Quicker on Polo Field

English polo players admit the game as played in America against Americans is too speedy for them and they are a unit in declaring their own methods must be faster or their showing in the international matches in 1924 will not be any better than it was in 1923.

Americans, they assert, play at twice their speed. "They make every shot," says Lord Cholmondeley, one of the best players in the British Isles, "by not touching the pony's mouth. They take their man at once instead of waiting for him to hit the ball; and they take the ball if possible before it hits the boards, should it be going on to them, and so speed up the game."

Since their experience against American fours, the English poloists believe the Yankee style is the best and they plan to use it in coming seasons. From now on, they will strive for team play instead of being four individuals chasing the ball. They realize the necessity of having three or more capable reserve players ready to step into the lineup who will function as well or better than the regulars.

Sande Won Initial Race on Arizona Fair Track

Earl Sande, who rode Zev to victory against Papyrus, the pride of England, first appeared at a race track eight years ago when at Arizona's state fair he asked for a chance to ride. Finally they gave it to him, and mounted the slim, freckle-faced boy on a horse with a reputation of pulling up at the end of a race with its rider missing. "Sandy" let loose pandemonium in the stands by thundering across the white line several lengths ahead of them all.

SPELLMAN CASE TO BE COMPLETED

Today and submitted to Jury—Last Case At This Term Before Judge Stacy and Court Will Adjourn Since Die.

The Spellman will contest which has been on trial in the supreme court all this week will be completed today and submitted to the jury. The case which was once before tried in court and resulted in the jury finding that Mr. Spellman was not capable of making a will, was commenced last week and was adjourned over the Christmas recess and again taken up on Wednesday when court re-convened.

The first trial of the case resulted in a mistrial when in March 1923 after the case had been partially tried it was found that some one had distributed anti-Catholic literature in and about the court house during the noon recess, evidently with the idea of prejudicing jurors sitting in the case. The second time the case came up for trial in May of this year it resulted in the jury answering in the negative questions submitted by the court as to whether Mr. Spellman was capable of making a will at the time the instrument was drawn and also at the time the two codicils were added. This verdict of the jury was set aside by Judge Rosch who presided at the trial and resulted in a re-trial at this time of court.

A large amount of testimony has been introduced and a number of witnesses sworn by both proponents and contestants. Sessions of the court have been held until 6 o'clock in order to complete the case before the term was adjourned.

This is the last case to be tried before Judge Stacy at this term and when the case is finally completed today court will adjourn since die.

KERR FINDS TOWN VASTLY BETTER THAN YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Kerr of Danbury, Conn., and daughter Margaret, are guests of Mr. Kerr's sister, Miss Ida Kerr, 55 Albany avenue. Mr. Kerr about forty years ago was owner of a book and stationery store on Wall street, and later was connected with the Ross interests in the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway. For a number of years he has been engaged in business in Danbury, Conn., and has been honored by the electors of that city with public positions, having been elected and re-elected mayor of that city. In 1912 he was a delegate to the Democratic national convention and cast the first vote for the Connecticut delegation for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for president. Mr. Kerr says he finds his old home town growing larger and better in every way, on each of his visits, and that he gets great enjoyment in meeting and reminiscing with friends and acquaintances of his younger days.

Skyscrapers in London Possible

English architects favor six stories as the usual height for buildings in London and recently the planning of one nine stories high created considerable talk. There is quite a movement on in the British metropolis favoring higher buildings to relieve congestion, but the innovation is being fought in some quarters.

New Diving Apparatus

HOME BUILDERS OFFERED PLANS

United States Will Furnish Data for Five Cents.

BOOKLET IS WORTH $1,000

The man who plans to buy or build a home has been told to need the expert advice of a real estate dealer, a builder, a carpenter, an architect, a banker, a building and loan association, a landscape gardener, a plumber, an electrician, and a city building inspector. To get all that in the ordinary course of commercial or professional service would cost him at least $1,000.

He can get it from the government through the division of building and housing of the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C., for 5 cents. That insignificant sum will secure him a compilation of the best expert opinion that the department has been able to command. It is one of the results of Secretary Hoover's program of co-operation between the government and all building interests to establish better and more uniform standards for house construction and to disseminate information as to housing facilities.

Order "Plans" for New Types. Numerous standards for building material have been fixed and accepted by the building trade. Standard plans for small homes have been prepared and are available to the public at a nominal cost, and the architects are now working out a series of unit houses which give promise that ultimately some owners may enlarge or repair their houses merely by ordering "plans" or "units."

The government experts will tell you how much to pay for a house and the percentage of your income to devote to monthly or annual payments. They will advise you as to the amount of savings required, how to take care of your savings, and as to all phases of the financial operations you must see through in the course of acquiring a home.

They have suggestions to offer as to the location of a home with reference to transportation facilities, land values, character of the neighborhood, proximity of schools, parks and playgrounds, and having the title examined.

As to the house itself they have plans that you may make yours with regard to general arrangement, living room and fireplace, dining room, kitchen, bedrooms and closets, bathroom, hallways, basement, exterior and setting. And when it comes to the actual building they will tell you about getting a permit, choosing a contractor, paying him and checking him up on the things that cannot be seen.

First Big Question.

The first big question, if not the most important, for the would-be owner to settle, is as to how much he should pay for his property. This does not mean the determination of the value of the real estate he is to acquire and the cost of building, but rather how much he can afford to invest on the basis of his income. The government specialists in that line, after making extensive researches, have come to the conclusion that the value of house and lot ordinarily should be between one-and-two-thirds and two-and-a-half times the family income. This makes the usual proportion twice the income.

Thus, the man with a $2,000 income can afford to own a $4,000 home, while the man with $5,000 a year can pay for and maintain a $10,000 establishment.

Of course this estimate is not a hard and fast one. Differing conditions make for fluctuations in it. For example, a family living in a small town and having a garden and small poultry yard can afford a more expensive home than a family with the same income living in a city or suburb with higher taxes and street car or railroad fares to add to the cost of living. No definite rule or recommendation is made as to the percentage of the income that can or should be devoted to paying for the house and meeting the other expenses incident to owning a home.

However, it is pointed out that a family that is paying a sixth of its income for rent should be able to devote at least a fourth to buying and maintaining a house, for the amount thus used may include both rent and savings. In addition to interest payments and installments on the principal of a loan, however, allowance must be made for renewals and repairs, taxes, special assessments, insurance, water tax, fuel and other items that families accustomed to living in apartments sometimes overlook when making their home-owning plans.

Income and Cost Table.

The government experts have worked out a table that is of great interest to home builders. It shows the value of the house and lot that can be afforded on an income of a certain amount or range, the amount of the first cash payment that must be made as a minimum, the amount of the loan that will be carried on the property, the amount that must be paid as interest and amortization, the estimated taxes, insurance and upkeep, the total annual expenses, the amount of savings included in that item and the part of the expenses comparable with rent.

It is stated that the table does not attempt to set up arbitrary standards but is fairly typical and should be useful as a basis from which to figure.

The table shows that a family with an income of from $1,200 to $1,800 should be able to handle a $3,000 property. The first cash payment would be $600, leaving a loan of $2,400, on which the interest and amortization charge at 12 1/2 per cent would be $300, or $25 per month. Taxes, insurance and upkeep are estimated at $120, making a total annual payment of $420, or $35 per month, of which $150 may be regarded as savings, during the first year, and $270 as expenses comparable with rent. If the payments are made regularly the property will be free of debt in about twelve years.

Incomes of $1,800 to $2,400, $2,400 to $3,000, $2,400 to $3,600, $3,000 to $4,200, $3,600 to $4,800, $4,200 to $5,400 and $4,800 to $6,000 are worked out similarly in the table. On a $5,000 income, which is the average of the figures used in the final computation, a $10,000 home could be acquired. The annual payment would be $1,400, of which $600 would be expenses comparable to rent.

The governmental guide to home building says that plans should be designed by some competent person or bought from some organization that provides a complete plan service, such as the Architects' Small House Service bureau, which are non-profit-making organizations, endorsed by the Department of Commerce. National headquarters of this service are at 1200 Second Avenue, South, Minneapolis, and regional bureaus are maintained in New York city, Denver, Milwaukee, Portland, Ore.; Indianapolis and Pittsburgh. Each regional bureau specializes in plans for small homes especially adapted to its local territory, but does not undertake to supply plans for houses of more than six rooms.

The handbook contains statistics on home ownership by states, regional groups of states and the principal cities of the country.

GOLDSMITH SUES BOY RULER

Last of Manchu Emperors of China Appeals to President.

The last of the rulers of the great Manchu dynasty, Hsuan Tung, the "boy emperor" of China, sitting in jonesome grandeur in his isolated palace of the Forbidden City, has been sued by a Peking goldsmith for $500,000, says a Peking dispatch. He has applied to the new president of China, Tsao Kun, for part payment of the imperial allowance of $4,000,000 (Mexican) yearly, according to the Asiatic News Agency.

But there is little chance of the government acceding to the plea, because the finance ministry is unable to raise sufficient funds to pay officials and other public servants. As a result it is expected further relics of the once mighty Manchu house will be sacrificed by the "boy emperor" to meet his debts.

The court in which the goldsmith's suit was filed, it is said, taking into consideration the extreme poverty of Hsuan Tung, has agreed to treat the case leniently and give the youthful ruler time to raise whatever cash he can to satisfy his creditors.

PLAN PLANES FOR HUNTERS

Engineers Also Design Machines for Air Taxi Service.

Wild ducks and wild geese will have a hard time when airplane manufacturers get their latest ideas in hunting machines worked out. And wild animals in any country without adequate shelter will have no chance at all.

"Noiseless" machines, able to turn twenty different ways from a height of 200 meters and continue their flight calmly at 50 meters above the earth, were the marvels of the Gothenburg aircraft exhibition, according to German engineers just returned to Berlin from Sweden.

Von Loessel predicts a very small plane of about 20 horsepower, capable of carrying two persons—an air-taxi which can be hired for a hurried trip.

BRITAIN MAKES FAST "SUB"

X-1 Nearing Completion Is Largest and Speediest.

The submarine X-1, nearing completion at a Chatham dockyard, for the British navy, will be the longest as well as the fastest submersible craft in the world, according to the London Morning Post. She will have a surface speed of 33 knots, enabling her to accompany battleships when steaming at full speed.

The submarine will carry six 5-inch guns, an armament said to be unique for an undersea craft. Her displacement will be 3,500 tons.

It is recalled that the first British submarines, built in 1901, displaced 120 tons, and had a surface speed of nine knots.

TO MAKE MAN LIKE AUTO

Scientist Says Humans Will Be Turned Out Like Cars.

Max Thorek, the Vienna scientist who has become famous for his experiments in transplanting animal eyes, is also an expert in transplanting glands. But in recent lectures he has discouraged the idea that old may be made young again without fail.

He says it is sometimes possible now to improve the physical condition of persons who become old before their time, and declared that his experiments with dogs and rats have persuaded him it may be possible some day to construct men as we now construct engines and motor cars.

Narcotics Do Not Cure.

Taking narcotics to relieve headache and other pains of the body is like cutting the wire to stop the burglar alarm. The cause of the pain goes merrily along its mischievous way in the one case while the thief continues happily to pillage in the other.

NEWBURGH FIVE AT ST. MARY'S

The regular weekly basketball games followed by dancing will be held at St. Mary's school hall tonight.

In the big game the St. Mary's Seniors will be opposed by the Newburgh Army Five. The Hill City outfit comes here highly recommended, having had a very successful season. Those having played with the Newburgh quintet and who in all probability will be seen in action this evening are Dignel, DeMott and Groth in the forward positions, Carroll, center, and Blum and Conderoy, guards.

St. Mary's will use the following players throughout the contest: McGrane, Silks, Ruzzo, Noonan, Van Bramer and Culliton.

The Newburgh team on its home court shoots in open baskets, which fact is going to help its players in tonight's contest. The preliminary game will start shortly after 8 o'clock. The big game will follow.
